ASSESSMENT OF THE 16TH WFTU CONGRESS

Workers Rise up!
Against capitalist barbarism
For social justice
For a world without exploitation

Un nouveau chapA new glorious chapter has been added to the history of the World Trade Union movement with the resounding success of the 16th World Trade Union Congress of WFTU held during 6-10th April 2011 in the national capital of Greece, Athens. It was a historic event in the annals of the International progressive working class movement in the recent decades.

The participation of 828 representatives from 101 countries of the world, from all the continents, speaks volumes about the widespread popularity of WFTU and the deep penetration it has made since the 15th Congress in Havana.

The projection of a video dedicated to the 65 years of WFTU and its contribution to the working class movement vividly exhibited the WFTU's worthy role against exploitation, imperialism, colonialism and apartheid.

Similarly the Audio visual report of the last five years of the actions of WFTU remained a testimony to the growing role of the organization since the last Congress.

The ILO representative who attended the delegates' session, Mr. Dan Cunniah exclaimed about these peak of activities by WFTU in the last 5 years.

The inaugural session, attended by over 4000 in the jam-packed stadium of Tae Kwon Do was a marvelous experience to all the international participants also The militant songs and thunderous slogans with the flags, banners and mottos of those young workers, men and women, who came from all parts of Athens was a fitting tribute to the commencement of the memorable Congress.

The participation of the delegates in the proceedings of the Congress, was extensive, 115 speakers representing all the major trade unions from each and every participating country, took part in the discussions.

It was not just quantity of participants and speakers, but their presentations and interventions were qualitatively enriched, with full of political and ideological contents; they explained the struggles of the working class in each country to counter of the capitalist offensive.

'Athens Pact' the main document presented to the 16th Congress, in continuation of the Havana Declaration, not only analyzed the international economic crisis and their adverse consequences on the working people, but also clearly identified that the crisis is of the capitalist system and our duties are very important for the reconstruction of the movement in class perspective, the organization of the struggles for the overthrow of the anti-popular policies and of the system that creates it. The role of the ITUC in collaborating with the instruments of imperialism was well traced in the document, by advocating cooperation with the IMF & WB, by not participating in the militant initiatives such as strikes, demonstrations etc, transforming the trade unions into bureaucratic structures, by often taking the side of the employers at various levels."

Athens Pact correctly summed up the characteristics of the present situation thus:

- “Deeper exploitation of work force
- Depreciation of workforce with sweeping anti labour changes
- Increase of productivity with contemporary or newer technology
- Mergers, re-purchases in all essential branches and gigantism of monopolies
- Intensity of imperialist aggressiveness and promotion of plans for the so called “New Middle East”
- Putting the burden of the crisis on workers and countries
- Generalization of limitation of social allocations

The tasks underlined by the ‘Athens Pact’, based on the worldwide experiences of the working class, as was revealed in their speeches, were:-

- “Decisive, unyielding trade union struggles against monopolies unified in each country, industry, region
- Unification of the working class on class basis
- Politicization of trade union struggles with the objective of changing the correlation of forces, with the perspective of defeating the slavery pursued by monopolies and imperialism
- More coordinated struggles with other movements like peace movement, the youth movement, the women’s movements etc.
- WFTU must, de facto, take a role of rallying and mobilizing for action and struggle of the working class and its allies.”

Apart from the main document the Congress had enriched the participants with the various additional , specific documents dealing with important topics such as HEALTH & Safety of Workers in our time, International Labour and Trade Union movement in the 21st century, Developing countries debts - The trap and the way out, For the management of water resources, The global environmental problems and WFTU, The current situation of working women, International Organizations- their role today; International co-relations and beyond” and others written by progressive experts in various fields and translated into many languages.

The 16th Congress thus remained a knowledge building event to the leaders and cadres of the class oriented working class movement.

The Congress laid great emphasis on the improvement of sectoral trade union organization (TUI’s) and Regional offices. Separate, specific meetings were organized for the Regions of Europe, America, Asia Pacific, Africa, Middle East and their problems on organization, future tasks were considered in these discussions. Each such Regional meeting was widely participated by the trade unions of the concerned regions and conducted by the presidium consisted of the leaders of the respective region.

The need for strengthening the various TUIs of WFTU viz Agriculture, Financial Services, Construction & Allied employees, Education / Teachers, Energy, Metals & Mining, Public Services, Hotel & Tourism, Transport were also considered in the Congress. The main document, Athens Pact extensively dealt with the various aspects of TUI & Regional offices and their role in mobilizing the workers on sectoral/ regional levels based on the objectives and principles of WFTU.

Every participant in the Congress was able to fully involve in the deliberations because of the excellent arrangements for translating the proceedings in English, French, Arabic, Spanish, Greek, Portuguese and Russian. A fleet of professionals were working continuously for the translation of the documents and the utilization of modern technology was very much in sight in this world congress.

The new leadership of the WFTU was elected by secret ballot. Ballot papers were distributed to all the delegates. Already, the Nominations Forms for different posts were circulated to the delegates.

Openly and democratically, for the posts of President and General Secretary Com. Mohammad Shaaban Azouz and Com. George Mavrikos were directly elected in the delegates’ session, unanimously by lifting of hands by all delegates. The election of the functionaries took place and the delegates elected the members of the Presidential Council and Finance Commission casting their votes in the Ballot Boxes.

The 40-member Presidential Council met and elected the 17 Vice Presidents, 15 members and a 6 member Secretariat besides of the President & General Secretary. The members of the Presidential council in an atmosphere of unity and internationalization committed themselves to intensify their efforts for the defense of the working class rights around the world. The elections, thus was yet another experience by itself for all the delegates who took part in the process.

The success of the 16th Congress mainly dependent on the meticulous and elaborate preparations made at various stages, from the inception to the end. The documentation of these preparations at different stages, were presented to the congress. It is no exaggeration to declare that the important role played by PAME, the militant trade union of the Greek working class, was the prime mover in the successful launching of the Congress. The delegates of the 16th Congress cordially appreciated the assistance of the working class of Greece for the big success of the Congress; we remind the a big part of the Congress cost was covered by money collected through an open financial campaign organized by PAME inside the sectors and workplaces.

The volunteers, young men and women, tirelessly and smilingly worked and earned the admiration of all delegates world over. They were everywhere at the hotels where the delegates were accommodated, in the several transports that conveyed the delegates to the conference & back as well as at the conference. A comradely and fraternal atmosphere prevailed throughout the Congress.

A special mention has to be made and rich encomium must be paid to the staff of the WFTU headquarters who worked for several months, night and day, for the successful conduct of the 16th congress. They were totally devoted to the cause and deserve all admiration and encouragement, is the unanimous and considered view of the Secretariat.

In order to meet the present and future requirements of our world body and improve the organizational democratic functioning, the WFTU's Constitution was suitably amended. The terms of the office of the Chief functionaries were accordingly prescribed under the constitutional amendments, besides amending the preamble. This was felt to be a long outstanding organizational requirement and the 16th congress fulfilled that Working women meeting was a special event in the 16th Congress. WFTU has fully taken the task of defending the economic, political and social rights of the working women as a primary moral obligation and the congress resolutions have approved this responsibility. Many interventions centralized on the significance of the opportunity given by WFTU to the new trade unionist women to enhance such important experience. The conclusion of the women meeting underlined the necessity for WFTU to establish Women Sector Committee.

The International Action Day and the demands therefore viz "(i) Government funded Social Security for all (ii) Right to form trade unions and Right to collective bargaining (iii) Better wages for Decent living (iv) Working hours – 7 hours per day, 35 hours per week on a five day week (v)Solidarity with the people of Palestine (vi)Freedom to the 5 Cubans who are illegally kept in US Jail on false charges" are very significant and this has drawn the attention of the world working class to carry forward the future, collective struggles.

In fine, the historic 16th Congress re-confirmed that the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) shall continue to march forward as a class oriented, open democratic, militant organization, engaged in class struggle and against imperialism and capitalism.
